It is our painful duty to record the death of Mr. Henry Gitcher, of Fairfield areance, who died thout noon yesterday. Mr. Gitcher removed there from Newport a few years ago and engaged in the bakery business, which was unsuccessful. He afterwards moved to Newport, where he again commenced business. On the 8th of February of last year his wife died, which caused him to become despondent, and he had been in broken health ever since. Mr. Gitcher was about forty years of age, and leaves six orphan chi dren, the oldest a girl sixten years of age. Friends will brured to-morrow at 2 p.m. Mr. Gitcher belonged to two societies, the benefits orphans unprovided for.

It's all over town—snow.
Capt. Chris. Bosche will return home to Louisville this evening.

It is reported that the lee in the Monongahela River is sixteen inches thick some places.

The Southen Transsortation Company yesterday elected Capt. A. Donnally and R. M. Semple at their meeting held at No. 10 Public Landing for the purpose of adding two directors to the Board.

Will. S. Hays really thinks that the Louisville ship-yards do know how to shape a model and build a fast boat, but Capt. Thomas P. Leathers, of the Natchez don't think so.

Messers. Whilew and Safely, contractors at New Orleans, have said out within the past ten days $12,000 for abor in cutting out the f cicuts of the different boats they were engaged to discharge.

"Messrs Regan, Kenna and Hubbell have been authorized to prepare a river and harbor bill within a specified limit as to amount for considerat on of the full Committee on Commerce."

The Gate City will probably enter the New Orleans and Ouchita River trade.

The Pittsburg cold men will make a proposition to the Board of Underwriters of this city to-day, to bring out some of their powerful tow-boats, now here, to break the ice up in the harbor, both above and below, when a break-up is apparent. The expense is to be shared equally by all interested. We hope an organization will be effected, as we believe by that means great damage will be avoided.

"An article with the above heading appeared in "An article with the above heading appeared in the Louisville Courier-Journal of December 24th. It is characteristic of the author. He tells us of events before they happen. He fails, however, to display the same alacrity to explain how they occur. That might spoil the seasiety of his predictions. Now, my prophetic friends, let me t ll you something. Without intending to disparage your 'race horses,' or their builders, i beg to inform you that the Natchez, a Cincinnati built boat, has less power than any of the boats named; yet, as the ture record of performances will show, is unequaled in speed by any boat built at or in the vicinity of Louisville, and the builders of these 'race horses' might derive profit and wisdom by sending for some Cincinnati mechanics to teach them how to shape easy models, by which to gain greater speed with less power, thereby saving more than enough to pay for the journalistic gas now necessary to maintain a reputation for superfority.
